

Annual Ball

25 November 2006

Doltone House, Jones Bay Wharf

Dear Friends

It is with honour and pleasure that I write this years' report as the President of the SS Crocifisso Association. It was also my first charity ball as the President which made it a very special night for me.

The night was a success and like every other year at the Doltone House, the food and service was first class. Lou Grecco, everyone's favourite cousin and MC kept the show rolling, the ever so popular Alfio Bonanno took time out from the recording studio to perform especially for the night, showing us why he is one of the hottest tickets in town.

The 2006 ball reached a record high for the number of tickets sold and for the number of young adults supporting the Association with their attendance.

Forty thousand dollars was donated to four different beneficiaries; Westmead Children's Hospital, the Children's Hospital at Randwick, Nepean Hospital and the Westmead Institute for Cancer Research, in the name of Aphrodite Roman who tragically passed away from this terminal disease. She supported our Association every year, we miss you Aphey.

I would like to thank all the Committee for their hard work on the night, our sponsors for their generosity and support and all our members and their guests who supported the evening - purchasing raffle tickets, bidding on auction items, you are the reason we are able to hold the most successful religious charity ball event. Thank you.

Antonio Calacoci (Toto) President
